2010

What's at Stake in California?

Abortion Rights: Access to safe, legal abortion and affordable birth control are under attack. Help secure reproductive health care and rights once and for all!

Student Loans & Education: California is experiencing an unprecedented budget crisis affecting every level of our educational system.

The Environment: Make sure California continues to be a leader in environmental preservation and green energy. Protect California's coasts from Big Oil!

LGBTQ Rights: Help guarantee marriage equality and LGBTQ civil rights!

Immigration: Immigrants rights are human rights, stand up for immigration reform!

Why HER Vote Counts

Elections are frequently won by tiny margins and the mobilization of students-especially young women-has the potential to change the political landscape drastically. Young people, especially young women, have important rights at stake in this midterm election, which makes it even more imperative that we exercise our right to vote!

Your Vote Counts: In 2008, 49% of 18-24 year olds voted. Let's build on this momentum in preparation for this year's midterm election!

Women Are Under-Represented: Women account for only 17% of the U.S. Congress and only 23% of state legislative seats. The U.S. ranks 73rd internationally in political representation of women

The Gender Gap: Women vote differently than men on many important issues, a measureable difference called the gender gap. This difference is often significant enough to determine the outcome of elections.

Let's take a stand on issues that matter most and Get Out Her Vote this fall!

Vote on Tuesday, November 2nd!
